

Spider-Man: Neighborhood Notes
Original fan-made text comic script

Issue 1: The Stolen Meteorite

Panel 1

Night over Queens. Peter swings between apartment lights.

PETER (thought): Rent is late, chemistry lab is early, and somehow crime still keeps office hours.

Panel 2

Police radios crackle below.

DISPATCH: Suspect heading east on Roosevelt Avenue with a metal case.

SPIDER-MAN: I love when the universe sends calendar invites.

Panel 3

A masked thief sprints through traffic, clutching a glowing case.

THIEF: Move! This rock is worth more than your whole block!

SPIDER-MAN: Bold claim for a guy wearing bargain boots.

Panel 4

Web line snaps across a streetlight and wraps the case.

THIEF: Hey!

SPIDER-MAN: Finders keepers, science edition.

Panel 5

The case pops open in midair. A small meteorite pulses green.

PETER (thought): That is not normal geologic behavior.

Panel 6

Spider-Man lands on a fire escape as the meteorite hums louder.

SPIDER-MAN: Note to self: never trust a rock with mood lighting.

Panel 7

The thief lunges with a shock baton.

THIEF: Hand it back!

SPIDER-MAN: Counter-offer: you stop committing felonies.

Panel 8

Spider-Man webs the baton and yanks it into a trash bin.

SPIDER-MAN: Recycling is important.

Panel 9

The meteorite emits a wave that flickers nearby streetlights.

CROWD: Whoa!

PETER (thought): If that surge hits the grid, Queens goes dark.

Panel 10

Spider-Man wraps the meteorite in layered webbing and seals it inside the case.

SPIDER-MAN: Improvised insulation. Please hold.

Panel 11

Police arrive and cuff the thief.

OFFICER: You again?

SPIDER-MAN: You say that like I have hobbies.

Panel 12

Dawn breaks. Peter hands the case to a city science team.

SCIENTIST: This could power a neighborhood for months.

PETER (thought): Maybe one good save can keep the lights on for everyone.

End of Issue 1

Issue 2: The Rooftop Garden Heist

Panel 1

Community rooftop garden, Saturday morning.

MAY: The tomatoes are finally winning.

PETER: Don't jinx the tomatoes, Aunt May.

Panel 2

A drone swarm descends and starts cutting planter boxes loose.

KID: Our garden!

SPIDER-MAN: Okay, this is a new low for villainy.

Panel 3

Spider-Man vaults over a skylight and tags three drones with web pellets.

SPIDER-MAN: Unauthorized harvest denied.

Panel 4

The drone controller appears on an adjacent roof in powered armor.

VILLAIN: Soil data is money. You people sit on gold.

SPIDER-MAN: It's basil and carrots, my guy.

Panel 5

Armor launches micro-rockets at water tanks.

PETER (thought): If those tanks blow, the whole block floods.

Panel 6

Spider-Man webs the rockets together mid-flight and swings them upward.

SPIDER-MAN: Return to sender.

Panel 7

The explosion showers sparks safely above the roofline.

VILLAIN: Impossible!

SPIDER-MAN: Strong disagreement from gravity and web fluid.

Panel 8

Spider-Man short-circuits the armor using a hose and a webbed power cable.

SPIDER-MAN: Conductive consequences.

Panel 9

Neighbors secure the captured drones with garden twine.

MAY: We can rebuild every planter by tomorrow.

KID: Can Spider-Man come back for watering duty?

Panel 10

Spider-Man salutes from the ledge before swinging away.

SPIDER-MAN: Keep growing. This city needs more gardens than getaways.

End of Issue 2